Haymarket - Public Comment Form - Submission #1297

Date Submitted: 10/13/2020

Public Comment Form for Haymarket Proposal

Due to state mandates limiting the size of gatherings, the Plan Commission has implemented new procedures (which are available below) for conducting large scale public hearings remotely. Moving forward those wishing to actively participate in the hearing, may do so through advance sign-up. There is no need to resubmit questions, once you have completed the form. Requests will be processed in the order received.

Additionally, in order to streamline the process and ensure all information is heard, the entirety of the case will be heard before questions from the general public are accepted. Only Plan Commissioners and established interested parties will be able to question a witness directly after testimony.

What is the difference between questioning and public comment at a public hearing?

During questioning, the public is provided an opportunity to ask the petitioner and/or the other parties involved, direct questions about the information they presented. Public Comment is reserved as a time for the public to express their opinions or make general statements to the commission regarding the matter. In both circumstances, questions/comments should be addressed to the chairman.

I want to participate in the meeting by:*

- Asking a Question - Written
- Asking a Question - Over the Phone
- Providing Public Comment - Written
- Providing Public Comment - Over the Phone
- Attending in person, if possible

Please choose 1 (one) submission method. Example: Either choose to submit a written question or choose to ask question over the phone. Do not select both, as only method may be honored. Since providing public comment is separate from asking a question, you may elect to submit both a question and comment on the same form.

On October 28th 2019 testimony Dr. Lustig referred to a study about stigma associated with drug addicts (Page 36, line 10 transcript 10/28/2019). My question is what Haymarket is planning to do to remove such stigma from rest of Illinois population so that such stigma would not affect future property value of Itasca businesses and Itasca residents?

On April 14, 2020, The Chicago Sun-Times put out the attached article. As of that date, 45 people (patients & employees) had tested positive for Covid 19. As stated in the article, two Haymarket employees also died of Covid 19 related illnesses, after reporting to work at Haymarket in Chicago. How is it responsible to open one of the largest drug treatment facilities in the country during a pandemic, when we know facilities like these are breeding grounds for the virus? Wouldn't it be much more responsible to open smaller, regional drug treatment facilities, so patients could get the treatment they need and deserve in a smaller, much safer environment?

Haymarket Center battles coronavirus outbreak; former employee says they acted 'too late'
At least 45 people have tested positive for COVID-19 at Haymarket Center, 932 W. Washington Blvd. — 14 employees and 31 patients, according to a facility spokesperson.

By Manny Ramos on April 14, 2020 4:29 pm/ Chicago Sun-Times

Two employees of the Haymarket Center have died in the past two months; the most recent was just last week. Former employees said the deaths were coronavirus-related, but facility officials could not confirm that.

At least 45 people have tested positive for COVID-19 at Haymarket Center, 932 W. Washington Blvd. — 14 employees and 31 patients, according to a facility spokesperson.

Two former employees who spoke to the Sun-Times blame administrators for creating what they said was an unsafe working environment.

One of those employees — who didn't want their name used because they thought it might affect their job search — feared the center wasn't taking the virus seriously, so they resigned a month ago after repeated pleas to their supervisor to work from home.

"I feel as though they acted too late and the protocols they put in place weren't good," the former employee said Tuesday. "I requested to work from home from my direct supervisor well before the [stay-at-home] order and he was passive about it and dodged any further questions."

The former employee said they were given Lysol and hand sanitizers but temperature checks started only after the stay-at home order.

This person said all staff was deemed essential and forced to come into the office even if they had no direct interaction with patients.

"We all had to come in and risk being exposed," they said.

Dr. Dan Lustig, president and CEO of Haymarket Center, said patients with confirmed cases are being monitored by Haymarket medical staff while employees who tested positive are quarantined at home.

“These are unprecedented and frightening times, and congregate settings like ours are being impacted disproportionately around the country,” Lustig said in a statement. “In spite of aggressive mitigation measures implemented in conjunction with [the Chicago Department of Public Health], [the Illinois Department of Public Health] and infectious disease specialists, coronavirus made its way into our facility.”

The former worker said they were also told if they came in to work they would get an additional $300 at the end of the pay period.

“Which would make more sense if it was exclusively for clinical staff, but this was for those who worked in positions like my own where I am not caring for anyone.” the former employee said. “I personally feel it was offered to discourage people from calling in [sick].”

Lustig said the additional money was considered hazard pay to support employees during a difficult time. It was never intended to discourage people from taking sick time.

“We have repeatedly asked staff to stay home if they have symptoms, we are screening employees twice a day, and we have updated our employees regularly to keep them informed.” Lustig said. “Like many health care providers, we are offering bonuses to thank employees for doing a difficult job, and so they can pay for transportation and child care while school is out.”
